

Family AI Policy + Friday Devotion Generator

Write the policy WITH your kids. Then generate this Friday's devo.

Your kids are going to grow up with AI whether you lead on it or not. This week you write the family AI policy with them at the table — what it's for, what it never replaces — and you put it on the fridge. Then you use AI for the thing it's genuinely good at in a home: turning last Sunday's sermon into a Friday-night family devotion with a question for each child.

THE ACTION

- Sit down with your kids. Ask them what they think AI is good for and what it should never do. Write the policy together.
- Post the policy where the family sees it — the fridge, not a folder.
- Feed AI last Sunday's sermon (notes or the passage) and ask for a short family devo with one age-appropriate question per child.
- Run the devo this Friday. Tune it next week based on what landed.

LEAD, DON'T BAN

A policy your kids helped write is one they'll keep. A ban you impose is one they'll route around the moment you're not looking. Disciple them through the tool, don't pretend it isn't there.

SCRIPTURE

1 Timothy 3:4–5 — "One who rules his own house well... for if a man does not know how to rule his own house, how will he take care of the church of God?" The home is the first command. Lead it on this too.
